About 4,000 youths shouting "Menderes resign!" clashed with about the same number of supporters of the 61-year-old Premier.

Police and troops dispersed the mob without serious casualties, but tension continued high.

In an arrival speech he promised election of a new Parliament if the nation stays calm. It was his first public mention of voting since the student riots in Istanbul and Ankara April 28-29. He indicated no election date, but under the constitution he must call a vote by the spring of 1961.
