Hi Helena,

I hope you are having a great week so far! Unfortunately, the Secretary's schedule is already fully committed for the week of the 16th.

With that being said, I'm looping in Michael Brown. He is our Deputy Chief of Staff and is someone I think would be great for your team to connect with!

Thanks so much for understanding the busy schedule right now and I hope you have a great rest of your week.

Best,

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Meeting Request - Sila Nanotechnologies CEO, Gene Berdichevsky

Good afternoon Secretary Wright,

On behalf of Gene Berdichevsky, CEO of Sila Nanotechnologies, I am writing to respectfully request a meeting with you during his upcoming visit to Washington, D.C. the week of June 16 (preferably June 17-18).

Sila is a U.S.-based leader in critical materials production, advancing the Administration's goal of securing energy independence by reshoring key energy supply chains through cutting-edge domestic innovation. Initially supported by an Advanced Research Projects Agency-Energy award, Sila has since emerged as a global materials leader through our patented silicon anode technology. We continue to collaborate with the Department of Energy, most recently receiving an award from the Office of Manufacturing and Energy Supply Chains in 2022 to build a manufacturing facility in Moses Lake, Washington.

Mr. Berdichevsky is encouraged by the Administration's commitment to making the United States a global hub for critical materials production and processing. He would welcome the opportunity to discuss how Sila's work aligns with and supports these national priorities.

For your review, we have attached a letter from Mr. Berdichevsky along with a completed meeting request form. We appreciate your consideration and look forward to the opportunity to engage with you directly.

Sincerely,

Helena

Helena Schwarz
