

discovery of admissible evidence. Abex also objects to this interrogatory on the grounds that the information or materials it purports to seek otherwise lack relevance to the issues arising in these cases and are not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.

Abex further objects to this interrogatory on the ground that it assumes the truth of matters not established or matters not in evidence.

Subject to and without waiving these objections, and insofar as it understands this interrogatory, Abex manufactured and sold various asbestos-containing automotive friction products during various periods from approximately 1927 to 1987. Abex ceased manufacturing and selling its asbestos-containing automotive friction products in 1987 due to a shift in the demand for automotive friction products.

To the best of current and reasonably available information and belief, Abex manufactured and sold its asbestos-containing automotive friction products under one or more of the following trade names at various times:
