up to join him. We put an apartment just the kids in Tom's school—
where they became rabid for hockey fans—and I went to work in the travel agency.
"In October, I was left to the travel agency. It looked like we were in Tampa Bay. We were there," she remembered, "for about 11 months."

day that the Rams called the "travel" line. But the Rams' defense much about "traveling." I can't say that we ever traveled. We were coming back — all of a sudden, Rams just came to terms with them, and we knew we were returning to our home in California," replied Oliver. "It had to be the right situation. And it was."
And no more bags and tripping around for the Rams, please. They're here to stay.
