Dear Dr. Kehoe,

It has been quite a long time since you studied my case of lead absorption. However, I am writing in the hope that your memory or your records of my case may help. This is the situation. I am approaching retirement and in discussing this with our personnel people find that I will not get credit for time I spent in Cincinnati. This credit is not being allowed since time spent on the disability wage roll does not receive credit for pension calculations.

As I recall, I came to Cincinnati about March 20, 1944 with Basil Combs after you had arranged for lead absorption studies with The Du Pont Company. After staying there for a short time, as I recall, you told me I was ready to return to work but would I consent to stay so you could make some tests. I was glad to cooperate and stayed in Cincinnati until about October 2, 1944.

The Company records here indicate that all the time I was in Cincinnati I was unable to work. If you could give me a statement that some part of this period I was ready for work, it might clarify the record and add to my pension.

While this period of time is small in 30 years of service, I would like to receive credit for all I feel I deserve. I will appreciate any help your memory or records indicate is justified.

Sincerely,

Ernest Sanders
