that the information contained herein differs in any respect from any prior answer to discovery, these answers are based on the latest information available and shall be deemed to update and supersede such prior answers in any and all cases. This introduction and the general objections are explicitly made a part of and incorporated by reference into each of the answers set forth herein.

DEFINITIONS

As used in these answers: (i) the term "Lack of Relevance" means that an Interrogatory calls for information which is not relevant to the subject matter of the action and/or which is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence; (ii) the term "Burden" means that it would be unduly burdensome, oppressive, time-consuming and/or expensive to require Abex to compile and furnish the information called for in light of the degree of its relevance and materiality, if any; (iii) the term "Overly Broad" means that such Interrogatory is overly broad as to scope, time and/or location; and (iv) the term "Lack of Particularity" means that an Interrogatory does not state with reasonable particularity the information to be furnished, is vague and ambiguous, and/or incomprehensible.