the foundation.

Q And the place where you found a copy of the Hemeon report, this unpublished report was not in the files of the Industrial Hygiene Foundation, but you came across it when you were doing work at the Raybestos-Manhattan factory, correct?

A Actually technically correct. I found out about the report through discussions with old-time employees at this plant in Charleston which was one of the plants that Dr. Hemeon visited in the '40s.

They did not have a copy of the report and I tried to get my hands on a copy and actually wrote Dr. Hemeon who was alive at that time, and I also wrote the Industrial Hygiene Foundation.

And the response that I had was that they didn't have a copy and it showed up later in court testimony, in court proceedings.

Q All right.

A So I didn't get a copy in 1977.

Q Doctor, the reason that the employees of the Raybestos-Manhattan factory, the old-time employees
