Subject: Coal Ash Idea

Good morning, Byron,

You may be familiar with the news clipping below regarding potential modifications to the EPA museum. Given EPA's decades long history with coal ash and the agency's prior success in encouraging its recycling, including some information about that would be very interesting and appropriate. Is there anyone in the Agency we should meet with to advance this idea?

Thanks very much for your consideration...

At EPA museum, history might be in for a change

Different administrations tell very different stories about the past and the present.
