He said the function of the opposition party was to point out past failures of the Democratic administration. He contended that those failure ran through the Big Three agreements of Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam.

FISH CATCH DECLINES

The San Xavier cannery purchased two tons of albacore today. Other canneries along the row took only 4 1/2 tons of mackerel and 39 tons of anchovies. There were no sardines, and the mixed catch was the smallest in days.

and chickens. I tried to get past them fast. A man said to his wife, 'It's too bad they have to show them right at this time when they're moultin'.' So they were. Chickens always pull tricks like that.

I felt deeply for some Silver Polish chickens, however, who remarkably resembled myself.

So we proceeded with our parade over to where the sheep were. Most of them had coats on. Real coats made of burlap. I don't understand sheep. Hogs either. They look big and dangerous, to me, like evil-eyed Mack trucks that are melting in the sun.

We got over to the cattle show, but by this time, since I have hardly touched on all our adventures, our legs were giving out. There were some wonderful looking bulls being showed—Anguses for all I knew. But were about done. I thought of the man with his feet in the bucket.

The announcer on the information-office loudspeaker was tired too. "Walter Colton boss—I mean bus—is waiting at the gate," he announced wearily.

Well, we still had to take in the commercial section. I decided that since such fairs don't happen too often, we'd stand it. So off we went again. The kids had to go see Cubby, the talking toy bear on the Farmall Cub tractor. He's a wonderful commercial bear, all right. I even took some pictures of him. Met Don Casner, who used to work in the circulation department of The Herald when I was manager. He attracted the kids too, since he working with the Rexair exhibit, and had a pingpong ball afloat in the air over his gadget. The kids wouldn't come away. "Real magic," Jennifer said in an enchanted whisper.

"We've gotta go," I whined. "I wanna go home."

"We want to see Cubby again," the kids said.

"Well—all right," I said. I mean we kept going and coming back like this for quite awhile. But we finally got home with our balloons, very tired and very happy.

"Did you get your agriculture story?" Tal asked.

new war ought to be enchain because, he says, every citizen is free to express his thoughts and because it is necessary to tolerate views freely expressed by citizens of free states."

Vishinsky then continued: "This is not the first time we hear these songs about freedom to commit crimes, to excite beastly instincts, about freedom to instigate massacres, destructions, pillages, extermination of human beings.

"It is only unknown why, prohibiting and prosecuting pornography and traffic in women and children and imprisoning those who commit such crimes, it is impossible to put into the same prison the warmongers, provocateurs and instigators of slaughter who are the most offensive criminals against freedom, progress and happiness of mankind."

"No," Vishinsky continued, reading the statement in his sharp, emphatic lawyer's manner, "those who helplessly drop their hands before the unbridled warmongers take great responsibility towards millions of common people over whose living bodies they want to run this territory death machine.

"Law cannot and must not be silent here; human conscience cannot and must not give in!"

Vishinsky was dressed in a neat gray suit and looked pink-cheeked and healthy as he marched in 10 minutes late to take his seat with an interpreter beside him. He read his statement in Russian with translations after each paragraph.

Water Plant Uncharted

BEN LOMOND, Sept. 26 (U.P.) — The Public Utilities California Corporation, serving water to Boulder Creek, Ben Lomond and contiguous areas, does not even have a map of its system, William Stava of the hydraulic division of the State Utilities Commission, said today.

Stava, on the stand before Ira Rowell of the commission in an all-day hearing, declared the company's consumers increased from 1,309 in 1939 to 1,764 in 1946, but that its net revenue dropped from $10,335 to $8,825 in that time.
