Re: The Ruberoid Co., Division of General
Aniline & Film Corporation

Dear Fireman Garofano:

Confirming our discussion today at your office, the Ruberoid Co., a New Jersey corporation, was merged into General Aniline & Film Corporation, a Delaware corporation on May 26, 1967. The surviving corporation is General Aniline & Film Corporation of which The Ruberoid Co. continues as a Division.

Mr. Pekovsky will submit to you shortly applications relating to the labels formerly covered by certificate of approval numbers issued to The Ruberoid Co. for reissuance in the name of General Aniline & Film Corporation. As we indicated the only change will relate to the corporate designation, there being no change in the product itself or in the name under which it is sold.

We want to take this opportunity to thank you and Lieutenant Whittaker for your courtesy and assistance in resolving this matter.

Very truly yours,

James T. Sherwin
Associate Counsel
