The security issues facing today's public sector agencies are enormous. Government has become a leading target and consumer of counterfeit and grey market IT due to manipulations of the government procurement process by bad actors. In addition, mobile devices are flooding into the workplace and represent some of the more common threats to information.

On July 27, join PCM-G, Brig. Gen. Steven Spano (USAF, Ret.) and other tech leaders to discover how to combat vulnerabilities, implement a secure IT strategy, learn about Cyber Supply Chain Risk Management and how to secure a mobile ecosystem in the public sector.
