Sources of Help

The Women's Bureau develops policies and programs to promote the welfare of wage-earning women and encourage better utilization of womanpower Among its concerns are the conditions and safety provisions under which women work The bureau provides technical assistance, and consultative, advisory, and information services Its program is an outreach operation which stimulates, informs, interests, and involves national, state and local organizations and individuals in activities to achieve national objectives related to advancing the economic, legal, and civil status of women

Bureau of Employment Security. Affiliated state employment services consider physical demands and working conditions information on employer job specifications in measuring an applicant's qualifications for referral In the case of handicapped applicants, both the applicant's adjustment to his handicap is considered, as well as the extent to which a prosthetic appliance compensates for it

Bureau and state agencies seek improved housing, working conditions, and transportation for migrant and alien farm workers It cooperates with other federal agencies in the war on poverty, especially in developing employability among culturally, educationally, and economically deprived youth and adults

The bureau is responsible for the United States Employment Service and the Veterans Employment Service It guides and assists the state agencies in placement functions, occupational analysis, counseling, and testing functions, in maximizing employment opportunities for veterans, older workers, youth, handicapped workers, members of minority groups, and workers affected by the impact of automation and changing technologies, in promoting community efforts toward the greatest possible use of the labor force, in providing employers with information about the skills of public employment service applicants and in finding jobs for applicants, and in providing materials and techniques to employers for effectively using manpower

Department of the Navy
Office of Industrial Relations

The Pentagon, Washington, D C 20350

The office of Industrial Relations of the Navy disseminates to all shore activities of the Navy and Marine Corps accident analysis and educational material in the form of magazines, books, posters, bulletins, and films It also issues the following manuals

Application of Color to the Shore Establishment, Motor Vehicle Accident Prevention Manual, and U S Navy Manual of Safety Equipment

The monthly magazine Safety Review is available on a single copy or subscription basis The department's Safety Precautions for Shore Activities may also be obtained by private companies or individuals Both releases are sold by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D C 20402

The Navy has also produced the following safety films

To Live in Darkness
Safety in Offices, and Safety in Air Stations

These are available for rent or purchase from commercial distributors

Department of Transportation

800 Independence Ave SW , Washington, D C 20590

The department was established by the Department of Transportation Act of October 15, 1966 This act, which became effective April 1, 1967, transferred to and vested in the Secretary of Transportation functions, powers, and duties from

- The Secretary of Commerce, under laws relating to highways, ground transportation, aircraft loan guarantees, aviation war risk insurance, pilotage on the Great Lakes, and traffic and highway safety,
- The Secretary of the Treasury, under laws relating to the Coast Guard,
- The Administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency, under all laws administered by that agency,
- The Civil Aeronautics Board, under laws relating to aircraft accident investigations and review of denial, suspension, or revocation of air safety certificates,
- The railroad, motor and pipeline safety, the safe transportation of explosives and other