The measure goes too far, so he feels compelled to challenge the six-term congressman in 2018. 'The whole thing just seems too corrupt, I can't sleep because of it,' Aleman said. 'The injustice of it, just the great injustice of it.'" <http://lat.ms/2qOvQlQ>

VIEW FROM OMAHA -- "Warren Buffett, at Berkshire Meeting, Condemns Republican Health Care Bill," by NYT's Michael J. de la Merced: "Several questions homed in on politics, and Mr. Buffett, a Democrat with close ties to former President Barack Obama, offered measured criticism of President Trump's policies. He argued that the American Health Care Act, which passed the House this past week, amounted to 'a huge tax cut for guys like me.' He also said rising health care costs, rather than high taxes, were the biggest drag on American businesses. Medical costs are the tapeworm of American economic competitiveness,' he said." <http://nyti.ms/2pUgUml>

TOP STORY -- "Tense France chooses new president, deciding Europe's fate," by AP's Angela Charlton and Samuel Petrequin in Paris: "French voters decided Sunday whether to back pro-business independent Emmanuel Macron or far-right populist Marine Le Pen as their next president, casting ballots in an unusually tense and important presidential election that also could decide Europe's future.

"With Macron the pollsters' favorite, voting stations opened across mainland France at 8 a.m. under the watch of 50,000 security forces guarding against extremist attacks. Polling agency projections and initial official results are expected as soon as the final stations close at 8 p.m. [2 p.m. Eastern]. A security alert prompted the evacuation Sunday of the courtyard outside the Louvre museum where Macron had planned to celebrate election night. Campaign spokeswoman Pauline Calmes told The Associated Press that the Esplanade du Louvre, in downtown Paris, was evacuated as a precaution." <http://apne.ws/2qOAsbX>

FOR YOUR RADAR -- "North Korea says detains another American citizen, KCNA reports" -- Reuters/Seoul: "North Korea said on Sunday it has detained another American citizen for suspicion of acts against the state, which if confirmed would make him the fourth U.S. citizen to be held by the isolated country amid diplomatic tensions. Kim Hak Song, who was detained on May 6, worked for the Pyongyang University of Science and Technology, the North's KCNA news agency said. 'A relevant institution of the DPRK detained American citizen Kim Hak Song on May 6 under a law of the DPRK on suspension of his hostile acts against it,' KCNA said." <http://reut.rs/2pjnj8C>

POLITICO GETS RESULTS -- "House oversight panel to investigate Iran deal," by Josh Meyer: "Citing a POLITICO investigation, Republican leaders of the House oversight committee said [late last week] they have launched a sweeping investigation into whether the Obama administration, in trying to win support for a nuclear deal and prisoner swap with Tehran last year, undermined an ambitious U.S. counterproliferation effort to thwart Iranian weapons trafficking networks. Also in response to the POLITICO investigation, 13 Republican senators have demanded answers about whether the Obama administration jeopardized U.S. national security as a result of its protracted top-secret negotiations with Tehran, and then misled the American public when disclosing the terms of the two deals in January 2016." <http://politi.co/2pjlTEA>... Read Josh's original story, "Obama's hidden Iran deal giveaway" <http://politi.co/2ps9Tvv>
