It purports to be from a Mr. Burch?

A Yep.

Q It is an intracompany correspondence on Owens-Corning letterhead and it has your name on it as receiving a copy?

A Yes.

Q Now, looking at the document, you agree that, based upon the document, that you are likely to have received a copy of it in the course of your employment at Owens-Corning; it is probable that you did?

A Yeah, but I don't know why, except they have sent it to the president and the heads of all of the divisions and then the head of the research.

Kessler, who was in California and Boyd, who was Toledo. And, you know, they gave it pretty broad coverage.

It says, attached is a copy of this letter which we would feel -- which we feel would be most helpful if we were faced with a lawsuit in which the original reporter --
