

the present time. Plans are under way to eliminate even these. Mr. Weber outlined the current procedure of analyzing samples of urine and blood from employees for their lead content and using these results as an index of control. As samples show high lead absorption values, employees are referred to the doctor for treatment.