Thanks, Amy. I've heard some conflicting reports around the Federalist Society. Who have you been talking to there?

All,

Just wanted to make sure you knew the following associations/companies/groups are supportive of EPA appealing en banc. We know information has come from a number of places, so wanted to send a summarized list. Please let me know if you have any questions.

Associations/groups include:

US Chamber of Commerce

NAM

The Federalist Society

AHRI (they just voted this morning and should be reaching out to you shortly). AHRI consists of many different companies

Other supporters:

Also attached are letters from Honeywell, Chemours, Senator Kennedy, and supplier companies. The supplier company letter consists of both large companies like 3M, as well as small and medium owned businesses who will be negatively impacted if the SNAP rule is vacated.

In addition the following companies have requested a meeting with you all to discuss their shared point of view with Honeywell and Chemours: Ingersoll Rand, Emerson, Hill Phoenix, Danfoss, 3M, Spray Products, Demilec, LaPolla, NCFI Polyurethanes, ESCO and others.

For background AHRI membership has about 300 companies which include:

Carrier Corporation

Daikin Applied Americas Inc

Danfoss

Hill Phoenix

Ingersoll Rand Company

Lennox International Inc.

Nortec
