Subject: Temporary RVP waiver for Kansas

Importance: High

I've been asked to assist with requesting a temporary Reid Vapor Pressure waiver for Kansas up to 11.5 psi. I've talked with my counter parts in some other states who informed me they had heard this was already in the works for some geographical areas of the US.

So can you inform me what if any waivers have been granted and where I can find the specifics? And, if no waiver has been granted covering Kansas what information you like to see with such request?

As you already know this is in relation to possible product shortages resulting from the storms in TX.

My e-mail address has changed to: doug.musick@ks.gov
