

To: Jackson, Ryan[jackson.ryan@epa.gov]
From: American Enterprise Institute
Sent: Mon 6/26/2017 10:09:05 AM
Subject: AEI Today: Understanding the Senate health care bill

Understanding the Senate health care bill

AEI's daily publication of independent research, insightful analysis, and scholarly debate

Reuters

Understanding the Senate health care bill

Joseph Antos and James C. Capretta | Health Affairs

Senate Republican leaders released a discussion draft of their version of health care legislation, the Better Care Reconciliation Act. The Senate Republican plan is best understood as a GOP amendment to the existing Affordable Care Act (ACA). Indeed, one could imagine that, back in 2009, if the Republicans had attempted to modify rather than defeat the ACA, this is the kind of amendment they would have offered.

AEI

Did we win the War on Poverty?

Arthur C. Brooks | AEI video

In 1964, President Lyndon Johnson introduced the War on Poverty to "cure" and "prevent" destitution in the United States. Was the initiative successful? What went wrong? What, if anything, went right? What would a real war on poverty look like in 2017? The War on Poverty has offered plenty of economic analgesics but few cures. AEI President Arthur Brooks briefly analyzes the results of LBJ's flagship effort.

Reuters

Austerity rules the 2018 defense budget

Mackenzie Eaglen | AEI

It is no secret that President Donald Trump's first defense budget falls short of his own rhetoric. The president's defense budget would repair, not rebuild, the military. Worse, it lacks the investments necessary to allow a robust rebuilding effort to begin a year from now. The request represents a more muscular status quo at best.

Reuters

What does a Trump supporter look like?

Karlyn Bowman | Forbes

In 2016, the Democracy Fund, a foundation based in Washington, DC, gathered a group of nearly two dozen academics and polling practitioners with diverse political points of view to take a deeper look at important currents in the 2016 election. The results of that work show that, far from being monolithic, there are five distinct types of Trump voters.

More from AEI

The pound's wake-up call for Brexit supporters

Desmond Lachman | AEIdeas

Education reform is best accomplished when passions are tempered

Frederick M. Hess | Education Next

Campus threats to free speech

Christina Hoff Sommers | Commentary

Looking at the Better Way tax plan on its anniversary

Alex Brill | AEIdeas

Putting Modi's Washington visit in context

Derek Scissors | AEIdeas

Has the world been fitted with a debt straitjacket?

Desmond Lachman | The International Economy Magazine

Understanding the structure of educational revolutions

Andy Smarick | National Affairs

Podcast: Discussing criminal justice reform

Spencer Moore | AEI Banter

Watch live: Targeting transnational organized crime in the Americas with opening remarks by Sen. Marco Rubio (R-FL)

Roger F. Noriega and Kirsten D. Madison | AEI event today at 3:45 PM ET

Last chance to RSVP: Ronald Reagan and the return of blue-collar conservatism

Karlyn Bowman and Jonah Goldberg | AEI event on Tuesday at 5:30 PM

Around the web: The coming productivity boom

Matt Winesett | AEIdeas

AEI cares about your inbox. Want to tailor your AEI subscriptions? Click here and get content that matters to you.

View online | Ensure delivery | Subscribe

American Enterprise Institute
1789 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20036
P: 202.862.5800 | F: 202.862.7177 | www.aei.org

This message is for: jackson.ryan@epa.gov | Manage preferences | Unsubscribe