Unpaid wage claims show 2000 increase

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The number of unpaid wage claims submitted to the state for collection increased more than 2000 during the past nine months. Gov. Goodwin J. Knight has been informed by Paul Scharrenberg, state director of industrial relations.

Scharrenberg said the increases indicated many employers are running short of operating cash.

He said his department during September collected $117,000 in wages owed to employees by employers.
