Dear Mr. Harrison:

I have attached the raw material information that you will need, prior to producing Paco products. There may be items like the talc, where another source would be more economical. In this case I would want to secure a sample and run an evaluation.

Please be advised that the CMP Acetate contains mercury. Both mercury and asbestos are considered hazardous materials. I am not familiar with the laws of Tennessee, but if you have any questions as to E.P.A. permits or O.S.H.A. regulations, I may be able to give you some advise.

I also want to advise you that the Elvace 1875 is an emulsion that reduces our cost, but is sensitive to boric acid and borate compounds. Fire-proof wallboard would be one problem area with this emulsion. If you feel this could be a problem in your market, we will make a change.

Getting the containers will probably take the longest time. I have advised other suppliers to make contact with you also.

If you have any questions, please call.

Sincerely,

Douglas W. Merrill
