I would not recommend it for this meeting. There will be little enlightenment about the study, only budget tracking, discussion of what we know about progress since the annual meeting (probably not much to add since the fall 2005 meeting), and some planning for closure.

I would recommend the Smithsonian

OK. Thanks. Would you mind if I sat in on at least part of the Shanghai meeting just for my own enlightenment? Now that Chemical is part of Downstream and we're part of Health Services I'm assuming that the ban on my participation must be lifted (or expired or something).

I will be attending the Shanghai meeting and hope also to catch the last hour or so of the benzene TF meeting. I have asked Michael and Bruce to include the so-called benzene coalition as an agenda item toward the end.

Stu,

Are you planning to attend the meeting in DC on February 21st? It's sort of a lost day for me right now between the Benzene Task Force on 2/20 and the Toxicology Task Force on 2/22.
