Industry Hygiene Research Program by Irving J. Selikoff.

Q At the bottom it has where it was published and the year, can you tell the jury?

A Industrial Medicine in April of 1970.

Q There are some quotes in here that I want you to read them and explain them to the jury in layman's terms.

Would you read the paragraph here to the jury and then let me -- take that paragraph and tell the jury what is meant by that?

A Well, this is Selikoff sort of looking back at what had happened over the preceding decade or so, and he stated, it is too easy to indulge in what might be called the demonological theory of industrial hygiene history.

One burden would be to place the responsibility for early identification of risk and its correction upon industry and then indict it for trading human health for profits.

Similarly, the other side of this
