Dear Mr. Wormser:

In reply to your letter of July 16, I shall give you a concise history of the hospitalization and symptoms of Lola Parker.

A few hours before the child was admitted to the hospital, she began convulsing; and when admitted to the hospital was already in a critical condition. She showed signs of encephalitis and continued to have generalized convulsions. Physical findings showed a lead line on the gums and marked anemia. Laboratory tests confirmed the anemia and showed lead stippling of red blood cells. X-ray findings showed lead lines in bones.

The child expired after a hospitalization of a little more than 40 hours. An autopsy was performed but I do not have access to reports at this time.

Very truly yours,

J. I. WOMACK, M.D. (SIGNED)
