Pollution prevention efforts to be awarded

Illinois businesses and organizations that give high priority to pollution prevention by taking steps to significantly reduce the amount of hazardous and solid waste generated in Illinois are urged to apply for the state's "Pollution Prevention Awards."

Applications for the awards are being accepted by the Hazardous Waste Research and Information

Center, a division of the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources.

Applicants should submit forms and descriptions of the pollution prevention programs by April 30.

For more information, contact Alisa Wickliff at the Hazardous Waste Research and Information Center, 217-333-8940.
