January 29, 1937.

Mr. S. S. Yates, President,

500 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.

Dear Mr. Yates:

Re: X.

I quote the January 26th statement by the United States Secretary of Agriculture, H. A. Wallace, addressed to growers and shippers of apples and pears: "The lead tolerance of 0.018 grain per pound will remain in effect for 1937 and until further notice. The tolerances for arsenic (expressed as arsenic trioxide) and fluorine are in each instance 0.01 grain per pound."

Cordially yours,

Charles Wesley Dunn
