Re: Herman Dendinger v. Chrysler Plastic Products
Corporation/Etta Wallace v. Chrysler Plastic
Products Corporation

Dear Kirk,

We have forwarded to you all but two of our defendants' answers to your interrogatories. I telephoned you last week to inquire as to the status of your answers to our interrogatories, but you have not returned my call.

As you know, an extensive period of time has passed since we exchanged interrogatories. Since we both have had problems obtaining answers from our clients, our understanding was that mutual extensions would be granted until our respective clients have prepared their answers. I think you'll agree that my problem was larger than yours since I had numerous clients to deal with.

When can I expect your answers to interrogatories? Also, I believe you indicated during an earlier telephone conversation that you have a large stack of plaintiff's medical records in these two cases. Please send these to me as soon as possible so that discovery of your experts can begin.

Sincerely,

RAB
