

SACRAMENTO, April 8. (AP)—Majority report of a special committee which exonerated Southern California assemblymen from charges that Nathan Elliot, Los Angeles truck lobbyist, boasted of holding them in the "palm of his hand" was adopted today by the upper house.

The report was approved without roll call after Senator Swing directed a slashing attack at the minority report written by Senator McGovern-Swing, citing a statement in the McGovern report "that ours is becoming a government by lobbyists" called it "an insult to the Senate."

McGovern, replying, termed the majority report a "kind of aspirin" for "blatant bribery." He said he felt the senate should have gone further.

Swing countered by saying McGovern should file charges to substantiate statements of the minority report.

Alvin Karpis, Last of "Big Shots" Sought

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8 (UP).—The federal agency that wiped out John Dillinger, Baby Face Nelson and Pretty Boy Floyd intensified its search in the far west today for Alvin Karpis, last of the "big shots" remaining at large.

Department of justice agents, proud of their record in previous outlaw hunts, were scattered between Reno, Nev., and San Francisco with orders to get the man who figured in the Bremer kidnapping in St. Paul, Minn., and who late last year shot his way out of a police trap in Atlantic City, N. J.

There was evidence that Karpis might have had his face "lifted" to prevent identification.

Parole Violator Back To Prison

Clarence Lowry, recently released on parole from county jail while serving 76 days on a conviction of drunken driving, was haled before Judge Monty Hellam in police court this morning on a charge of being drunk in a public place last night.

He was turned over to the sheriff's office and taken back to jail. He had his jail term suspended for 90 days in the county jail, suspended on condition that he leave the county at once and remain away six months.
