A Yes, it would.

Q Now, when you were at the Sinai Hospital, the plasterers would work in teams of two?

A Yes, ma'am.

Q You were paired with your dad at that jobsite, correct?

A Yes.

Q And is it true that you are not able to recall the name of the gentleman who worked with Mr. Vandergucht at that job?

A No, no, I can't.

Q Okay. Were there two separate buildings at Sinai Hospital?

A At the time there was two. There was a nurses quarters and the main hospital.

Q Now, sir, in your -- in one of your depositions you talked about, in order to do plaster work so that -- I guess so it would be done correctly, you would have to wait for it to be about 40 degrees?

A You couldn't plaster if it was freezing.

Q Last winter wouldn't have been a good time