Bill, I can't tell you how great it was to have you and Clint at the NACAA meeting in Tennessee. I heard a lot of good feedback about your time on the agenda, folks really liked your candor and thoroughness and a lot of folks mentioned they appreciated the investment you made to get on a plane and talk with us. That was great.

One thing that I've been thinking about is that we at NACAA and in the state and local agencies can do a better job of engaging with you earlier in your processes - we talk a lot here about how the best time to provide input to NACAA comments & resources is always "early". I think that equally applies to our EPA partnership. I'm going to work with the membership to prioritize our most important issues for engagement, and if y'all would be open to it, sometime down the line work with your team to have a few folks be able to come check in with you at EPA on issue identification and on the solutions they want to explore. I'll work with your team as that moves forward and thanks in advance for your support and partnership on that.

I said this after you came to speak in DC in January, and I'll say it again: thanks. You've shown you want to walk the talk by getting in the room with the states & locals, and I am super appreciative of that. If there's anything I can do to support y'all as we drive toward our shared clean air mission, please count on it.

I hope your trip home was easy. Thanks again.

My best, Miles
