Dear Administrator Pruitt:

Thank you for taking the time out of your busy schedule to meet with us. As we discussed, the business of architecture relies on EPA programming such as Energy Star, as well as access to research and data through resources such as the TSCA Chemical Substance Inventory and the Indoor Air Quality program. We hope that these worthy programs will continue to receive support from EPA leadership.

Please consider the American Institute of Architects a resource on any building-related matters. We look forward to further engagement to advance EPA's vital mission of protecting the public and preserving our environment for future generations.

Sincerely,
