both times, and I think you sustained it once and you overruled it once.

I think that is where we are on that.

MR. SMITH: Your Honor, I think what it was, it was a question to Mr. Helser, Mr. Helser, are you aware of Mr. Boeschenstein --

THE COURT: That is right. The guilty party is assenting.

MR. SMITH: What came in without objection is our reading of the Anderson --

MR. WILLIAMS: It was not without objection. I did object to that.

MR. SMITH: Regardless, I don't recall, but this came up before with respect to Owens-Illinois and Owens-Corning and was ruled on repeatedly by courts in this jurisdiction. Once a director obtains knowledge, it is imputable to the corporation on which he sits on the board.

This is the same situation. Mr. Boeschenstein had actual knowledge and he took that knowledge with him to the Ford board of directors and
