P R O C E E D I N G S:

(Whereupon, in open court.)

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. SHELLENBERGER: Your Honor, would it trouble you if I changed my warnings?

THE COURT: No, be my guest.

MR. SHELLENBERGER: Ten and five, please.

THE COURT: Ten and five. You don't like five and two.

MR. SHELLENBERGER: No. I realized by the time I get to five and two, I am in trouble.

THE COURT: You got it.

MR. IGNATOWSKI: Judge, can you change mine to when I am five over?

(Whereupon, laughter ensued.)

THE COURT: Whatever you say, Mr. Ignatowski. I am on your side.

All right. Counsel, are we ready for our jury arguments, opening statements?

MR. IGNATOWSKI: Yes, sir.

MR. McGOWAN: Yes, Your Honor.
