Hello ---

My name is Lisa and I'm an editor at Latitude Media. I'm getting in touch because I'm working on a piece about the evolution of the EPA's air pollution rules. I saw the news that companies will be able to request a temporary exemption, and I was hoping to hear more about how those requests will be evaluated. What are the metrics by which a particular plant will be judged? How long is the longest that a "temporary" exemption would last?

If it makes more sense to set up an interview than to respond by email, I'm very open to that -- my deadline for this is EOD next Wednesday.

Thanks in advance for considering it. I hope you're well!

Best,

Lisa
