YOUR STUCCO HOUSE NEED PAINT? THEN—

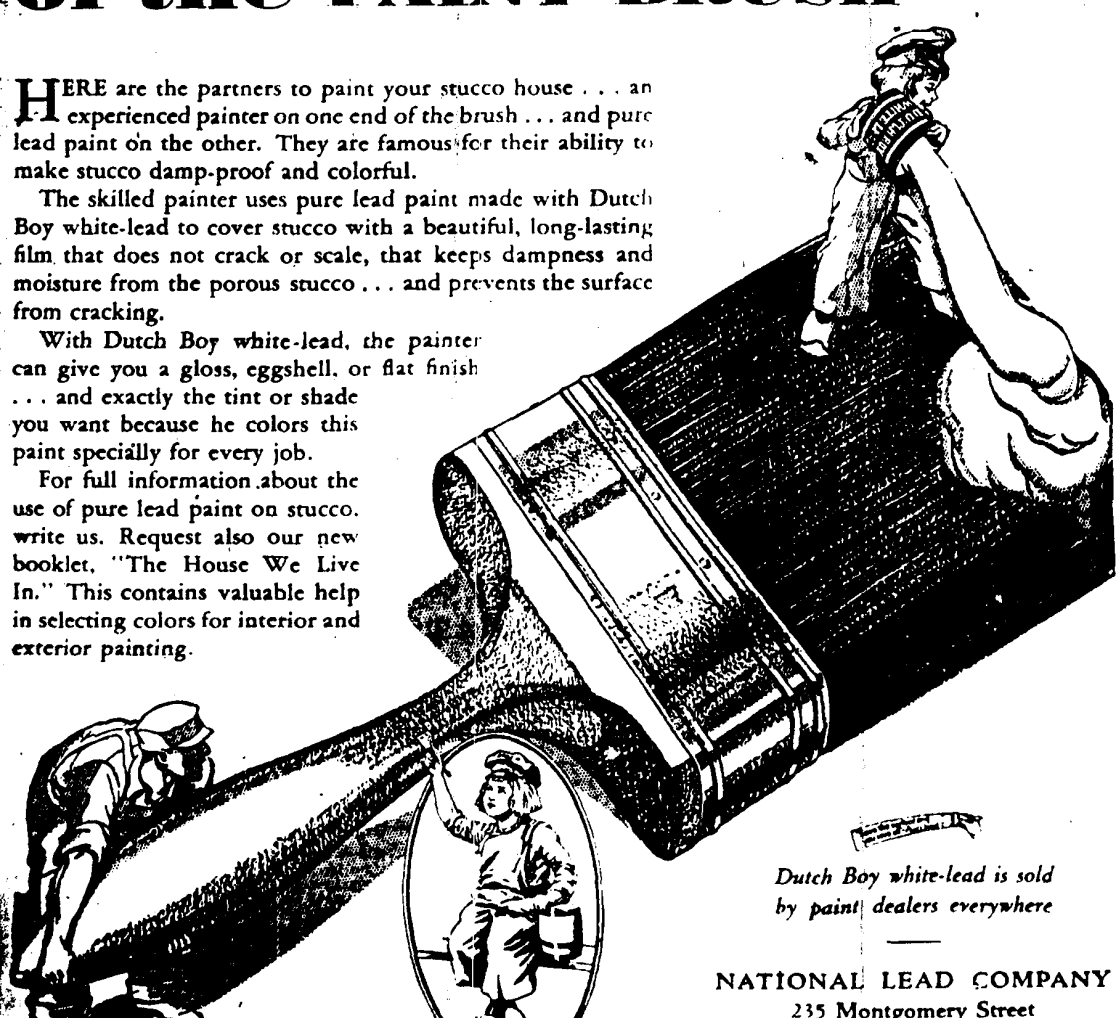
Look to BOTH ENDS of the PAINT BRUSH

HERE are the partners to paint your stucco house . . . an experienced painter on one end of the brush . . . and pure lead paint on the other. They are famous for their ability to make stucco damp-proof and colorful.

The skilled painter uses pure lead paint made with Dutch Boy white-lead to cover stucco with a beautiful, long-lasting film that does not crack or scale, that keeps dampness and moisture from the porous stucco . . . and prevents the surface from cracking.

With Dutch Boy white-lead, the painter can give you a gloss, eggshell, or flat finish . . . and exactly the tint or shade you want because he colors this paint specially for every job.

For full information about the use of pure lead paint on stucco, write us. Request also our new booklet, "The House We Live In." This contains valuable help in selecting colors for interior and exterior painting.



Dutch Boy white-lead is sold by paint dealers everywhere

Paint with LEAD . . . DUTCH BOY WHITE-LEAD

Investigation Begun

Our ancestors, for example worked out of doors, ate simple food and went early to bed with no intricate modern problems to disturb their rest. Little was heard in those days of General Debility, Nervous Depression Tonics, Laxatives, etc. But as civilization spread and population grew more congested, the simple life, which automatically regulates the chemical process of the body, vanished forever for millions of the human race. Crowded sedentary methods of living took its place. The result was a vast increase, not in specific diseases, but in what are called ordinary ailments.

General Debility, Indigestion, Chronic Constipation, Low Vitality, etc., are sure indications that the human machine is doing its work under protest, with its metabolic activities out of balance.

Medical Science was troubled by the subnormal physical condition which it saw on every hand. It was particularly disturbed by the immense amount of gastric disorders which were encountered. Indigestion was becoming more and more prevalent. The human stomach had, apparently, been unable to adjust itself to modern conditions, and civilized man seemed doomed to chronic dyspepsia.

At this point, widespread Scientific Investigation of the stomach began. It continued over a period of years. Its results were surprising.

The Investigators finally proved that the cause of most cases of stomach trouble lies outside of the stomach.

They were found to be largely due to an insufficient flow of bile from the gall bladder into the duodenum, a part of the digestive tract.

This discovery led to an exhaustive investigation of bile. Most of us can remember when bile was thought to be a useless harmful distillation of the body which caused Biliousness, Nausea, and other unpleasant symptoms. The Investigators disproved all that. They discovered that bile has many all important functions.

Life Sustaining Fluid

It is an alkaline which counteracts hyperacidity;

It is a powerful digestant without which food cannot be properly assimilated;

It is Nature's own laxative so certain in its action that people with a normal flow of bile are practically immune to constipation;

It is an antiseptic, which lessens bacterial growth in the intestines and combats putrefaction and the formation of gas.

Bile is, in short, a veritable life-sustaining fluid. If we lack it, the entire chemical action of the body is deranged and we become the victims of auto-intoxication or self-poisoning, with the inevitable mental and physical depression which follows.

The Investigators gave these findings to the world. They indicated that Indigestion, Constipation, Hyperacidity and Auto-Intoxication should be combated by the simple, natural method of stimulating bile flow. Medical Science adopted the suggestion.

Bile is manufactured by the liver. The one way to increase bile flow is by stimulating the sluggish liver.

They attempted to do so using for the purpose Calomel, which at that time was thought to be the most effective stimulant for the liver known.

The effect was disappointing. Indigestion, Gas, Hyperacidity, Auto-Intoxication still continue.
