

To: Jackson, Ryan[jackson.ryan@epa.gov]
From: American Enterprise Institute
Sent: Tue 6/6/2017 10:07:00 AM
Subject: AEI Today: The Senate should build automatic enrollment into health reform

The Senate should build automatic enrollment into health reform

AEI's daily publication of independent research, insightful analysis, and scholarly debate

Reuters

The Senate should build auto enrollment into health care reform

James C. Capretta and Lanhee Chen | Health Affairs

As the debate over health care rages behind the scenes, some Republicans are looking for ways to boost coverage, stabilize insurance markets, and lower health costs. Automatically enrolling Americans eligible for tax credits into no-premium plans with the opportunity to opt out would preserve freedom of choice while boosting the ranks of the insured — a win-win for conservatives.

Twenty20

US infrastructure is in trouble, but hiking the gas tax won't fix it

R. Richard Geddes | Illinois Business Journal

America's surface transportation system is in scary shape. Congested roads wasted 6.9 billion hours of motorists' travel time and almost 3.1 billion gallons of fuel in 2014. Key system parts are in need of major overhaul. Maintenance of roads and bridges has been deferred — sometimes for decades. Revenue sources are inadequate and unreliable; the system needs more direct user fees. So, time to raise the gas tax, right? Not so fast.

AEI

Elliott Abrams on the Six-Day War, 50 years later

Danielle Pletka | AEI Viewpoint video

The Six-Day War, otherwise known as the June War, between Israel and its neighbors — Egypt, Jordan, and Syria — marked a turning point in how Arab countries would see the Jewish state for the next half-century. In anticipation of the 50th anniversary of the conflict, Elliott Abrams, senior fellow at the Council on Foreign Relations, discusses this major turning point in the Middle East and how it has shaped the world today.

Reuters

The real victim of the president's NATO outburst? The US

Dalibor Rohac | Politico Europe

The partnership between Europe and the US will survive President Trump's performance at NATO headquarters last week. His brusque behavior and intemperate words may have prompted a response from Angela Merkel, but the German chancellor knows the transatlantic relationship is bigger than any one politician. The real victim of Trump's crudely transactional approach will in fact be the country he was elected to serve.

More from AEI

We should thank China for doing more to raise our standard of living than any country in America's history

Mark J. Perry | AEIdeas

President Trump shouldn't give in to the temptation to downsize the IMF

Desmond Lachman | US News & World Report

The plain truth about the Paris climate accord that both sides are missing

Ramesh Ponnuru | Bloomberg View

Theresa May should fear for her job — and Americans should start bracing ourselves

Desmond Lachman | The Hill

Donald Trump actually did carry (metro) Pittsburgh

Michael Barone | Washington Examiner

Is automation really the worst enemy of the US middle class?

James Pethokoukis | AEIdeas

Watch live this morning: AEI and Brookings scholars release a plan for paid family leave

Aparna Mathur | AEI event today at 9:00 AM ET

The new FCC can only do so much. Keeping the internet free requires legislation.

James K. Glassman | TechPolicyDaily.com

Productivity growth stinks. Is artificial intelligence the answer?

James Pethokoukis | AEIdeas

Last chance to RSVP: Deaths of despair — opioids, community, and the economy

Nicholas Eberstadt and Sally Satel | AEI event tomorrow at 10:30 AM ET

Lessons from the road on charter schools

Gerard Robinson | AEIdeas

How big are the gains from international trade since 1950? Try $2 trillion — or $18,000 per American household.

Mark J. Perry | AEIdeas

AEI cares about your inbox. Want to tailor your AEI subscriptions? Click here and get content that matters to you.

View online | Ensure delivery | Subscribe

American Enterprise Institute
1789 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20036
P: 202.862.5800 | F: 202.862.7177 | www.aei.org

This message is for: jackson.ryan@epa.gov | Manage preferences | Unsubscribe