

NYU - BELLEVUE TALK - March 31, 1949

in the protection of their own future, the protection against the damage to them which will result from a shortage in medical school graduates. That shortage exists today and will rapidly become much more acute unless sufficient funds are promptly supplied for medical education.