This buy-at-home business is the bunk!

Watch out for this SCOOT. He's as dangerous as the hoof and mouth disease. Every day he's cutting off his nose to spite his face—spending out of town, picking his own pocket, robbing local paint and hardware merchants of the ability and cash to buy his merchandise or his service in turn. Perhaps he saves a few pennies during the year, but he loses far more for he helps to keep local salespeople out of work—he helps to put local merchants out of business—he helps to keep "FOR RENT" signs on empty stores!

If he realized that local merchants naturally know more about paint and hardware than out-of-town store clerks—that the paint and hardware dollars he spends out of town never return—he would understand that "this buy-at-home business" is not the "bunk," but the foundation of his own prosperity!
