Mr. Heath placed a one drum order for Pyranol A1383B about a week ago. On checking with him I found it was a switchgear application and that he employs someone from Florida Power & Light to make the fluid change. He was unaware of the relation between PCBs and Pyranol but being a food plant readily understood the need for care. It turns out that the present disposal method is to pour the scrap fluid around the plant's chain link fence! I described our incineration facilities (freight prepaid/$0.03/lb. incineration cost). I told him you would send him labels for returning future scrap. Can you handle please.

Thank you.
