it has turned out, in fact, to be the case.

Q As a result of the work that you have done, have you ever published the results of any of your studies?

A Sure. That is part of our measure of whether or not you are doing what you should be doing as a scientist.

I publish my findings routinely and I published about over 115 papers now and about half of them related to asbestos disease per se, and most of them, almost all of them related to lung scarring.

Q Okay. And approximately how long have you been publishing articles on asbestos disease and your experiments?

A The first paper I published on this area came out in about 1980.

Q Okay. Have you published or written any chapters in any books, Doctor?

A Almost 40. I think it is 37 chapters now. Most of them dealing with asbestos disease.

Q And have you written in any books or
